RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF SPECIFIED LICENCE HOLDERS

An exclusion order remains in force until:

- it is revoked by the specified licence holder, or a person authorised by the specified holder or
- the Commissioner of Police gives written approval for the revocation of the order or
- the Tasmanian Gaming Commission revokes it on appeal by the excluded person.

The specified licence holder, as soon as practicable after revoking an exclusion order, must give notice of the revocation to the Tasmanian Gaming Commission.

A copy of this revocation notice should be given to the person whose exclusion has been revoked.
