Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework 2010-2015

Rising Above the Influence

Annual Implementation Plan 2011

Introduction

The use of alcohol is part of Australian culture, social activity and the economy. It also causes significant harm within communities including preventable illness, death, injuries, motor vehicle accidents, assaults and family and social issues.

The Government has released the Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework 2010–2015: Rising Above the Influence in early 2010 (the 'Framework') to deal with these issues and reduce the social and health harms caused by alcohol in Tasmania. This Framework guides activities and partnerships between Government Agencies, Local Government, community sector organisations and the liquor and hospitality industries.

The key strategies of the Framework are:

- Changing the drinking culture in Tasmania;
- An effective system for controlling the supply of alcohol; and
- Providing effective interventions to deal with and prevent alcohol-related harm.

The Inter Agency Working Group on Drugs (IAWGD), which developed the Framework on behalf of Government, is also responsible for coordinating its implementation. An Alcohol Advisory Group (AAG) has been established to provide support and advice to the IAWGD on alcohol-related matters. The AAG's function is primarily to coordinate the development, implementation and monitoring of Annual Implementation Plans emanating from the Framework and to report annually on achievements and progress.

This document represents the first combined Tasmanian Annual Implementation Plan under the Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework 2010-2015, to highlight the activities of Government and other interested key stakeholders in addressing alcohol-related harms in Tasmania.

Government actions

The initial implementation of the Framework focuses on the activity of Tasmanian Government Agencies to address the social and health harms associated with alcohol use.

During the consultation phase undertaken in the development of the Framework, the IAWGD identified three initial priority areas for action across Government. These priority areas are:

1. Scope current and developing legislation to identify the need and opportunity for review of legislative and regulatory frameworks, to ensure there is an appropriate and consistent approach to the control and supply of alcohol. The review would consider among other things, the provision of additional opportunity for police, public health, local councils and industry to provide input and influence the licensing process;
2. Developing strategies to address social determinants for risky drinking behaviour, such as developing prevention and early intervention strategies and establishing appropriate prevention and early intervention strategies targeting high-risk groups and high-risk behaviours; and

3. Community development, engagement and capacity building through promotion and support of strategies in local communities.

Government Agencies were asked to develop an Annual Implementation Plan which targets the Framework's key strategies and priority areas. The IAWGD has brought together each Agency's plan into a consolidated plan that provides a comprehensive view of the new and existing activities and initiatives that Agencies have committed to undertaking in 2011.

The consolidated Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework - Annual Implementation Plan 2011 outlines the specific actions to be undertaken by each Agency, the timeframe for implementation, how the activity outcomes will be measured and the partners involved in each of the actions.

Many activities and initiatives require Agencies to work in partnership to achieve the desired outcomes. The consolidated plan highlights very clearly that affecting change in alcohol use is reliant upon a whole-of-government and whole-of-community approach.

Non-government, industry and community sector actions

The IAWGD recognises that alcohol issues affect the whole community. If the issue of alcohol-related harm is to be addressed, there needs to be a whole-of-community approach and there needs to be support for strategies that engage with the community and assist to build capacity to deal with these issues. This consolidated Annual Implementation Plan has a section to highlight the important involvement of non-government organisations.

In the first instance community stakeholders were invited and encouraged to consider how they can contribute towards the implementation of the Framework and, where appropriate, provide input into the development of the Annual Implementation Plan.

The AAG is also looking at establishing strategies for ongoing engagement with the community, Local Government Councils, community sector organisations, sporting clubs, and industry regarding the implementation of the Framework and other alcohol-related matters.

Monitoring and Evaluation

The IAWGD will report to Government on the progress of the Framework on an annual basis through the Minister for Health.

The Annual Implementation Plan will be monitored and reviewed by the AAG on an ongoing basis. As participating agencies and organisations are responsible for their activities and initiatives, they will also be required to report on their performance against the Plan. Both quantitative and qualitative measures will be utilised in reporting performance against the plan of action.

In monitoring the Annual Implementation Plans, the AAG will be engaging with all participants and other key stakeholders to determine the appropriateness of the actions and initiatives; the achievement of the intended actions; the relevance and appropriateness of the key performance indicators; developments locally, nationally and internationally; and the changing priorities of the Framework.

A formal evaluation of the Framework will be conducted in its final year of operation to determine the impact and the extent to which the aims have been achieved.
