So with the rollout of this card does the same limits apply to those playing Keno or those betting on the TAB because you can lose more money on those 2 gambling places quicker than you can on pokies, you are going to stop people who just go out a couple of times a week and play the pokies with friends maybe you should start really really really enforcing the RCG at the premises that have poker machines with the same gusto as those who are intoxicated who are asked to leave, for me personally as someone who's worked in the industry since the 80s publicans and managers are not going to stop someone pumping thousands of dollars into the pokies compared to cutting off a intoxicated person unless their are serious ramifications, maybe the industry needs to look at that as everyone is required to have a RCG and RSA
