F. Tasmanian Gambling Exclusion Scheme (TGES)

The Tasmanian Gambling Exclusion Scheme is based on the Gaming Control Act 1993 and provides a way for patrons to exclude themselves from nominated gaming activities at any premises in Tasmania. The scheme is an important part in the responsible conduct of gaming in Tasmania.

An online Exclusion Database has been developed to assist Licensed Premises Gaming licence holders to comply with their obligations under the Scheme. The Database is a central record of all excluded patrons in the state, and makes record keeping, recognition and reporting of excluded persons easier.

As an Applicant for a Licensed Premises Gaming licence, you or your representative will be required to use the Exclusion Database regularly. You will be required to have the following available and operational at the premises:

- Online internet access
- A printer; preferably colour
- An email address for the LPG holder or authorised representative.

You will receive further information about the Scheme and accessing the Exclusion Database once your application for a Licensed Premises Gaming licence has been processed.
