Important

The information provided below is a brief outline of the rights and responsibilities of parties involved in the exclusion process. The Gaming Control Act 1993 specifies other obligations on the parties. To obtain further information please contact the Liquor and Gaming Branch.

Issuing an exclusion order under section 76ZNC

On receipt of an application, the Commission must provide the person in respect of whom the application is made with a written notice:

- a) informing the person of the making of the application and the reasons for it; and
- b) inviting the person to make representations to the Commission about the application.

After considering representations made by the applicant and the person in respect of whom the application is made, the Commission must:

- a) if it is satisfied that it is in the interests of that person and the public interest to do so, make a third-party exclusion order ("TGL exclusion order") prohibiting that person from wagering with the licensed provider; or
- b) if it is not satisfied, refuse the application.

On making a third-party exclusion order, the Commission must provide a copy of the order to:

- a) the affected person (the person nominated for exclusion);
- b) the licensed provider; and
- c) the applicant.

On refusing the application, the Commission must notify the applicant and the affected person in writing of that refusal and the reasons for making it.

Revocation of an exclusion order issued under section 76ZNC

An affected person or the person who applied for a third-party exclusion order may apply for a revocation of the order.

On receipt of an application for revocation, the Commission must provide the other party with a written notice:

- a) informing the other party of the making of the application and the reasons for it; and
- b) inviting the other party to make representations to the Commission about the application.

After considering representations made by both parties, the Commission must:

- a) if it is satisfied that it is in the interests of the affected person and in the public interest to do so, make an order revoking the TGL exclusion order; or
- b) if it is not satisfied, refuse the application.

On refusing the application, the Commission must notify all parties in writing of that refusal and the reasons for it.

On making an order revoking a TGL exclusion order, the Commission must provide a copy of the revocation order to:

- a) the applicant
- b) the other party; and
- c) the licensed provider.
